Legislature Chooses Stephenson To Fill John C. Spooner's Unexpired Term.

IS INTRODUCED BY LT. GOV. CONNOR

Marinette Statesman Makes Pledge To Stand For Reform Doctrines---Rumors Of Deal With Davidson Are Prevalent.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., May 17.—Ratifying the action of last night's republican caucus, the Wisconsin legislature today elected Isaac Stephenson of Marinette as United States senator to succeed John C. Spooner, resigned. The vote was: Stephenson (republican), 37; George W. Bird, Madison, (democrat), 16; Senator Jacob Rummel, Milwaukee, (social democrat), 4. Assemblyman Anderson, a democrat, voted for Stephenson and seven-and LeRoy, and was introduced by highly complimentary remarks by Lieutenant Gov. Connor. He briefly thanked the legislature and promised to continue to support the reform principles.

It was reported today that Stephenson's election was brought about through a combination whereby Gov. Davidson and Lieut. Gov. Connor threw the necessary votes to Stephenson in exchange for a promise of Stephenson's support for Connor for senator for the long term, and for Davidson to succeed himself as governor.

The report lacks confirmation and the La Follette people say Stephenson had a cinch anyway and Connor simply climbed on the loaded wagon.

Isaac Stephenson, of Marinette, nominated for United States senator in Republican caucus to succeed John C. Spooner, resigned, is a very wealthy lumberman and banker. He was born in Fredericton, N. B., June 18, 1829. He went to Bangor, Me., in 1840, and a year later moved to Wisconsin, where he worked on a farm. He afterward bought a schooner, which he sailed between Milwaukee and Escanaba, and invested his savings in timber lands. He is now president and controlling owner in the N. Ludington company, the Peshigo Lumber company, the Menominee River Boom company, the Stephenson company, and the Stephenson National bank of Marinette. Mr. Stephenson was a member of the Wisconsin legislature from 1866 to 1868 and served in the lower house of congress from 1883 to 1889. He has long been an adherent of United States Senator Robert M. La Follette.

The caucus vote will be followed by the formal election of Stephenson in joint session today.

teen of the republicans were absent, having left in order to catch the noon train for home.

Assemblyman Bancroft made the speech nominating Stephenson and it was seconded by Assemblyman LeRoy.

Col. Bird was nominated and seconded by Senator Huston and Assemblyman Potter, and Senator Rummel was nominated by Assemblyman Albridge.

Mr. Stephenson was brought to the convention hall by a committee consisting of Senators Morris and Sanborn and Assemblymen Bell, McGre-

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Paris, May 17.—Two years ago M. Michel Gongo, an engineer's assistant, was wedded, he knowing full well that his wife had more than friendly relations with an attaché at the German embassy. It was not long before M. Gongo found that this acquaintance had been renewed, and, naturally, there were some unpleasant scenes between the newly-married pair. Ultimately Mme. Gongo disappeared. After two months' search her husband discovered her in very undesirable company in a low quarter of the city. His reproaches so affected her that she attempted suicide by poison, but was nursed back to health in a hospital. From here she again disappeared, and when her husband once more discovered her there was a violent shooting his wife dead. Tried for the murder in Paris this week he pleaded justification, and was acquitted. From the court he drove straight to the cemetery, and deposited a wreath on his erring wife's grave.

There were great rejoicings in Madrid today, as well as in all other parts of the kingdom. The day was kept as a general holiday, public and private buildings were profusely decorated and the streets and squares were filled with pleasure-seekers. Many deputations bearing addresses of congratulation were received at the palace and several times during the day the King was obliged to show himself on the balcony in response to the shouts of the crowd. His appearance each time was greeted with the wildest enthusiasm.

JURYMEN STILL HARD TO OBTAIN

DIFFICULTY IN COMPLETING PANEL IN HAYWOOD CASE.

HARRY ORCHARD TALKS

Principal Witness for the State Shows
No Symptoms of the Insanity with Which He Was Said to Be Afflicted.

Boise, Idaho, May 17.—During the one session of the Haywood trial Wednesday 11 talesmen were examined before a satisfactory jury was secured to replace William Van Orsdale, the grocer at No. 2, who was excused Tuesday afternoon on a peremptory challenge from the state. As was expected, the defense exercised its first challenge by relieving Alton Price, a farmer, at No. 5. Mr. Price had testified during the examination that he had invited to dinner the deputy who served him with a jury summons. He and the deputy discussed the case for some time, the talk hinging particularly upon Harry Orchard, who is to be the principal witness for the state. A talesman was called in to replace Price, but his examination was deferred.

As the work of jury selection progressed the difficulties in the way of completing the panel seemed ever to be increasing. One after another of the talesmen were excused because of the strong opinions they entertained as to the guilt or innocence of the accused of conspiracy in connection with the death of Stenness. One man called for service, but dismissed by the court, indicated that he was prejudiced against the state because of various acts attributed to the prosecution during the last year. Each side still has nine peremptory challenges to exercise, and there remains 57 members of the special venire to draw from.

The morning session was abandoned because of the funeral of former Judge Edward Nugent, of the district court. The examination of prospective jurors will be continued to-day at ten a. m.

Harry Orchard Talks.

Harry Orchard, the prisoner witness upon whom the state of Idaho chiefly relies to prove its charge that an inner circle of the Western Federation of Miners planned in conspiracy the murder of Gov. Steunenberg, broke his long silence Wednesday, and for more than half an hour discussed himself and his imprisonment with representatives of the Associated Press, with whom he had expressed a desire to confer.

Orchard denied that he had been submitted to any mistreatment during his long confinement; denied that duress or force had been used upon him to secure the statement he had made, and denied that Detective McParlan and the officers of the state have promised him immunity for his confessed crime or reward for the value of his alleged confession in the hands of the state. Orchard seems perfectly sound and healthy in body; clear and quick of brain. If there was ever anything in the reports that he was breaking in health and mind, there is nothing now in his appearance or manner to give them a shadow of suggestion.

As a precautionary measure, the actual place in the penitentiary where Orchard is confined is kept secret, and the subject is one that the warden and the guards decline to discuss. Orchard's custodian is Guard Robbins, a veteran from the state of Maine, who came here years ago. He used to help Gen. O. O. Howard fight Indians, and for three years was constantly in service with him.

Mission for Duchess of Marlborough

WHERE THE DUCHESS OF MARLBOROUGH'S HOME FOR PRISONERS' WIVES AND CHILDREN WILL BE LOCATED.

THE DUCHESS OF MARLBOROUGH

The course of the duchess of Marlborough, following the unhappy developments in her matrimonial venture with the titled Englishman, will commend itself to right-minded people of the world, especially to those in America who have followed with peculiar interest the fortunes of the former Consuelo Vanderbilt. Instead of giving way to morose despair because the glitter of a dukedom in England has been found to be a hollow mockery, or seeking to forget her sorrow and humiliation in the pursuit of gay, thoughtless pleasure, the duchess of Marlborough has with true womanly grace won an American girl thrown her activities and her fortune into a mission whose object is the bettering of the lives of the women and children of imprisoned criminals. She has just completed her plans for carry on this unique charity on a big scale, and she has done it all in such a quiet and unostentatious way that the facts have not just become known. Some American papers have inaccurately stated that the duchess had joined the directorate of the Church army. She has not done so, neither will she work in its ranks, but proposes to carry on her worthy charity on independent lines.

This new benevolent enterprise of the duchess takes the form of a home in London for women and children of a special and previously almost neglected class. They are the wives and children of imprisoned criminals—innocent sufferers for the misdeeds of husbands and fathers—and to make a home for them, or at least some of them, the duchess of Marlborough has just taken a 21 years' lease of a roomy building in Endsleigh street, St. Pancras. This is being reconstructed, entirely by her orders, and negotiations are in progress for the use of two buildings on either side. When all these have been opened, and time has proved their usefulness, the duchess, out of her American millions, may put up special buildings or add to her leases the adjoining houses on the same block. For with her this is not a new charitable occupation of the London season, nor the passing and forced duty of a great lady of the land, but a life work in carrying out which she hopes to solve one of London's many social problems.

Readers, of course, are familiar with the family troubles of the duke and duchess of Marlborough. The duchess has the friendship of Queen Alexandra. By marriage her aunt is the marchioness of Lansdowne, wife of the former foreign minister. She is the acknowledged leader among women in political society. Lady Lansdowne also is a great friend of the queen, and may become mistress of the robes at court. The queen and Lady Lansdowne deeply sympathize with the duchess. They have cheered her up and advised her on more than one occasion.

Soon after the estrangement between the Marlboroughs the queen suggested that the duchess devote her time to hard work in order to get her mind off her troubles. Her mother, Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, was with the duchess at the time, and together they went to the Church army and had a talk with its leader, the Rev. Wilson Carille. The duchess wanted occupation which would not bring her before the public. Mr. Carille took her to No. 6 Banner street, St. Luke's, where, in the midst of the city slums, the army has its little branch devoted to the aid of prisoners' wives and families. The work is carried on in a modest way without publicity by Mrs. Hodder, wife of Capt. Hodder, the man in charge of the firewood department of the Church army.

The duchess was asked to help, and help she did. She went feverishly into the work. She bought 200 blankets, 1,000 yards of cotton to be made into sheets and underclothing, boots and shoes—everything, in fact, that Mrs. Hodder said was needed. And she began visiting the wives of the jailbirds.

A short time after the duchess had begun this work Queen Alexandra, who has taken deep interest in the duchess, suggested to Mr. Carille that the work be turned over to her entire control.

Mr. Carille immediately followed her majesty's suggestion. In his frantically energetic way he rushed to Sunderland house. The duchess was at luncheon with Mr. and Mrs. Belmont. Mr. Carille joined them. He imparted some of his enthusiasm even to Mr. Belmont.

Next day the duchess of Marlborough motored with her mother down to No. 6 Banner street, and took over the Church army's little nucleus as her own, her very own charity. There followed many days of hard office work. And it was on one of these days that the new project of the duchess, now being carried out, was born.

In Banner street is a big white-washed building—the Houseless Poor asylum. This was started in 1819 and the original work is still carried on, but by the Church army, which has its kindling wood brigade's headquarters there. Mrs. Hodder, six years ago, personally started befriending the families of men in jail. The work grew to such proportions that she called the attention of the Church army to it. Four rooms in a building across the street were rented and Mrs. Hodder's pet charity established there. It is this little beginning which the duchess of Marlborough has taken over. To-day's roll contains the names of more than a hundred families.

It was after the first week that the duchess astonished her lieutenant by outlining her plans. She announced that the society would continue in Banner street only until she was able to get new and proper quarters. First, she explained, there should be a building devoted to children. Here the little ones should live until their father's sentence ended and the family could be reunited once more. Here they should be taught to work to read and write and to play.

The next item of the duchess' plan was a maternity home, properly and thoroughly equipped as a real home rather than a cold, whitewashed maternity hospital.

Lastly, she declared she would have a woman's home. Here prisoners' wives were to be housed, at least those whose health or condition needed something better than the wretched accommodation of a single dingy room or filthy hotel. And here there should be an employment bureau and skilled women to teach these prisoners' wives sewing, domestic economy, ironing, artificial flower making and such like simple industries.

For many a day the duchess, Mrs. Belmont and Mrs. Hodder drove round in the duchess' motor car, visiting addresses of suitable buildings given them by real estate agents. None suited until Endsleigh street was reached. There are situated some large houses almost under the shadow of the old gray church of St. Pancras. No. 16 was vacant. It contains 14 large rooms, and is four stories in height, in addition to a commodious basement. The two houses on each side are at present occupied, though one is "to be let." So the duchess closed the deal for No. 16, buying the lease, which has 21 years to run. The tenants of one of the other houses want $1,000 before they agree to move, and with other little snags in sight, Consuelo has handed the matter over to an agent, and will go ahead with one house.

The four big rooms now rented in Banner street will be continued until such time as the duchess decides to move everything to Endsleigh street. But her office, the headquarters of her new charity, will be moved at once to No. 16, and there also will be established the employment bureau. On the register of names to be kept there will be placed the occupation best suited to each woman. The duchess then will advertise in the daily papers or her little staff will answer advertisements. Many of the women, if they can do nothing else, will go into domestic service, knowing full well that their children are comfortable and well cared for at the Children's Home.

The entire responsibility, expense and management will be in the hands of the duchess. She may ask the aid of helpers from the church army, from the dainty dames of high society or she may be satisfied with the simple help of the women to whom she now has become the guardian and ministering angel.

STEPHENSON'S VICTORY

Isaac Stephenson has been elected

United States Senator to succeed

John C. Spooner. The Marinette lumberman steps into the toga after a long and bitter fight for the nomination—a fight which has demonstrated that the republican party of the state is under the complete domination of Senator Robert M. La Follette. In his election the republican party pays honor to a man who in years past has stepped into the breach, used his money and influence, to secure the electoral vote of the state for the republican candidate. Mr. Stephenson has served his state in the legislature, as delegate to national conventions,

in congress, and for years was a warm personal friend of the late President

McKinley. He is an old man whose crowning ambition, to be United States Senator, is now consummated.

He has been a republican ever since the republican party was created. Liberal and generous he has done much to aid in the upbuilding of the state of his adoption. He knows Wisconsin from northernmost point to the Illinois state line. He knows its rivers, its lakes, its manufacturing needs. While he will doubtless play the part of the silent member during his short term in the Senate, he will be watchful for the best interests of the state. He is not an orator, but a constructionist like the late Philenus

Sawyer, and his work will be done in committee room and not with the blare of trumpets. Eight years ago he sought the honor now conferred upon him and was defeated. Today

he is triumphant and by his election the republican party has honored a man who has done much for his party and state.

A RETIRING VETERAN

The end of the present month will witness the retirement from active editorial work of Chalmers Ingersoll, for forty years owner and editor of the Beloit Free Press. Mr. Ingersoll is one of the last of the old

Guard of Newspapers in the state to retire from active work. Trained in a printing office from early boy-hood, he came west as a young man, served his country during the civil war in an Illinois regiment, and in 1866 came to Beloit and started the Free Press. Except for a short period when he engaged in manufacturing, he has been editor and owner of this journal ever since. With Mr.

Ingersoll's retirement from the paper the public will miss his strong and energetic editorials which have done much in times past to mould the policy of the republican party. He has served for years as Postmaster of Beloit and now in the autumn of his life he retires upon his laurels. He is succeeded by a coterie of young men who will take up the work where he drops it, making the Free Press felt in the community it exists. M. C. Hanna has for several years been in charge of the news end of the paper and a partner of Mr. Ingersoll will continue to handle both the news and editorial. D. H. Foster, a popular resident of Beloit and former city clerk, will be the business manager. A. F. Ayers, who has been long connected with the paper, will have charge of circulation and collections; and J. S. Hubbard, who goes to the Free Press from the Daily News, will have charge of the mechanical end. These young men will doubtless receive the hearty support of the city.

AN INQUIRY ANSWERED

In his debate with Henry Clews on socialism, George R. Kikkpatrick, the socialist advocate, pronounced this inquiry:

"If the profits of the Pennsylvania railroad should increase one hundred-fold in the next twenty-five years, would the wages of the men increase one hundred-fold?"

"If that inquiry had been put to a Pennsylvania railroad official he would have replied that in the past year the increase in wages paid to the employees of the Pennsylvania railroad had been $9,000,000, as compared with an increase of $2,000,000 in the profits paid to stockholders."

This short answer, from a financial exchange, ought to be satisfactory to an obtuse mind as that of the socialist debater. The question that is troubling this country today is how to meet the unreasonable demands of short hours and increased wages, on the part of organized labor, and leave even a small margin of profit for the capital invested, and the danger is that capital may weary of the struggle and retire from the contest.

Why disfigure the courthouse park with a bandstand? If the city band can not play on a platform as they have in the past let them have a special stand erected on the Corn Exchange like every country village and discourse sweet music there, accompanied by the interurban cars and the local city cars.

The question of walks in the city of Janesville is a matter of importance. Good walks in the downtown district are essential to the welfare of the city and they should be insisted upon.

The action of the state legislature in turning down the proposed appropriation of $25,000 for the Yukon-Alaska-Pacific exposition is perhaps questionable. Wisconsin is a great state and could well afford to let the outside world know it.

Taft's boom continues to grow like a snowball and it will take more than Forester to stop it. Ohio may be a large state, but there are others which have delegates to the National republican convention as well.

The city of Milwaukee is forging ahead. It seeks the great gathering of the republicans in 1908. Why not help them to secure this coveted honor?

The closing of the saloons on Sunday has passed the joking stage and some saloonkeepers are finding that the laws are meant to be observed.

If we ever get summer this planting of shrubs in the city parks will be appreciated.

The great deadlock at Madison is broken. Isaac Stephenson has won a hard fought victory.

Now that the saloons are being given a lesson why not get after the gambling rooms?

MORE THAN HE COULD HANDLE.

Brother Jones Was a Few Thousand Beyond His Capacity.

It was a little out-of-the-way church just after the foot washing had been observed, which is a custom followed by that particular religious sect of people, that the preacher, announced that the congregation would join in singing hymn No. 23, "My Soul, Be on Thy Guard; Ten Thousand Foes," etc. Jones, a red-faced, broad-shouldered giant, tried to put on a lot of energy and sing tenor, for this was a special occasion, and he seemed to be the whole church, since he was musical director, and the only choir they had, as well as janitor and deacon; in fact, he did everything but preach. Jones rose up and in stentorian tones began to sing in a pitch too high. When he got to the second line ("The ten thousand foes," etc.) it was necessary for his voice to rise beyond his capacity, and he broke down. The congregation began to titter, and a brother in the front row said: "Pears to me like you're a little too high." And the old gentleman in his shirt sleeves, over in the amen corner, rose up with a judicial air and drawled out: "S'pose we just try 5,000."—Judge's Library.

QUALITIES OF THE OYSTER.

One Particularly Good Point Which Bore Might Emulate.

A San Franciscan has discovered a new method of cutting short-recitals that promise to become too long-winded. An acquaintance of his, who has a local reputation as a bore, was one day holding forth at some length when the Californian interrupted him with: "By the way, did I ever tell you the story of the oyster?" On receiving a negative reply, he continued: "It seems that when oysters are taken from the sea they often open their shells so that the juice or liquid runs out. As this is undesirable, the experienced oyster gatherer has a tub of water close at hand into which the oyster is plunged as soon as it begins to open its shell." "Well, and what then?" asked the other, as the narrator paused. "The San Franciscan smiled. 'Oh, after a while the oyster learns to keep its mouth shut,' he remarked quietly."

Sleep and Old Age.

There is no question that the quantity of sleep required steadily diminishes from infancy to old age. This is a rather interesting exception to the general rule that, as in so many matters, old age returns to the needs of infancy. As regards sleep, old age is more remote in its needs from infancy than in any other period of life. If elderly people obtain good sleep during the first few hours, and if they have not lost that delight in reading which we all had in youth, but which so many of us curiously lose, their case is not to be grieved over. The special value of the earliest hours of sleep, by the way, has been proved by psychological experiment. The popular phrase "beauty sleep" is well warranted. It is the early (the deepest) hours of sleep that make for health and beauty.

Lye Ruins Eyeglasses.

A Ludlow woman learned by experience what any chemist could have told her, that lye will ruin eyeglasses, says the Kansas City Star. The woman was making soap and splashed a drop or two of the mixture on her glasses. She took a cloth and endeavored to clean them, but was amazed to find that all the colors of the rainbow were reflected in the lenses. No amount of washing would remove the colors, and it was necessary to get new lenses.

Great Slaughter of Salmon.

In the Sea of Okotsk the salmon are suicidal and one of the most startling examples of the spendthrift side of nature may be found in the rivers that run into this sea. When six years old the salmon begin a voyage of death. Ascending the river of their infancy they race in countless thousands upstream until lack of food and lack of elbow room kill them off. A recent traveler declares that, however many millions of salmon may run up the river, not one ever reaches the sea again alive. What becomes of the rivers of dead salmon? The seagulls wheel down upon the scene and feast upon their eyes, scornful anything less dainty. Bears, wolves, foxes and sledge dogs are made comfortable for the year.

A Queer Habit.

A New Jersey dog has a most peculiar habit, which is that regularly every Sunday and holiday he fights with some of his canine friends. Ordinary days he is the most quiet and peaceable dog imaginable, and would no more think of picking a quarrel than of refusing a bone. But always on Sundays and holidays that is he celebrates. Out he starts spooling for a fight, tall erect and hair bristling. He never fails to find one, either! Why he does this no one has ever been able to find out, but there seems to be something in the air on those special days that excites his fighting instincts, and he never misses an opportunity.

English Method Most Popular.

In England, most of the work of setting jewels is put into the hands of English jewelers, because the English jewel setter's method of having all the metal work at the back of the stones, instead of round the sides, as in France, is most popular.

Nation's Vast Wealth.

According to one authority the wealth of the United States, if converted into $1 bills, would reach from the earth to the moon and back again 30 times.

JUST HOW IT HAPPENED.

Story of an Elder, a Mince Pie and a Careless Cook.

"If yo' will dess puhmit me to specify a word or two, pahson," respectfully said a stranger who had entered Ebenezer chapel just before the beginning of the sermon. "I'll take pleasure in infawmin' de bruddren and sistahs yuh dissembled dat Puhsidin' Eldah Fishback enawmously regrets dat he can't be wid yo'all to-day, as expected, uh-kaze he's dead. CLING TO ANCIENT RITES.

Moroccans Still Offer Sacrifices to Propitiate the Powerful.

A strange custom still exists here, that of sacrificing live animals to propitiate those in power. An instance of it occurred the other day when three ragged women—velled, dirty and poverty stricken, came staggering up the hill to the flagstaff which stands in the middle of our camp, half pushing, half carrying, two sheep bound and helpless. At the foot of our banner staff they laid the beasts down and sticking a knife into their throats left them there to die by slow inches. No cries, no wailing; they huddled together and sat motionless awaiting Allah's will. The interpreter interviewed them and discovered that they were the wives of a Moor whom the new Kaif had imprisoned for the usual sin—the ownership of riches. This brigand plundered everything and turned the women out to starve. Hearing of the approach of a Bashad, a friend, no doubt of our lord the sultan, they came to offer sacrifice that he might have pity on them. Alas! nothing can be done, the Kaif is all powerful, even the sultan is helpless. Sometimes a bullock is hamstring on our road. Strange to say the sacrificed animal cannot be used for food by the penitents, but our escorts profit and drag off the carcasses with baying grins.—National Review.

Emerson's Advice.

I look upon the simple and childish virtues of veracity and honesty as the root of all that is sublime in character. Speak as you think, be what you are, pay your debts of all kinds.—Emerson.

To Tell Horse's Character.

It is easy to tell a horse's character by his nose, according to an army officer. If the profile has a gentle curve and at the same time the ears are pointed and sensitive, the animal may be depended on as being gentle and at the same time high-spirited. On the other hand, if the horse has a dent in the middle of his nose it is safe to set him down as treacherous and vicious. A horse with a slight concavity in the profile will be easily scared and needs coaxing, while one that droops his ears is apt to be both lazy and vicious.

Cut Flowers.

To preserve cut flowers a small lump of ammonia should be placed in the vase. This will not only keep them fresh, but will also help to destroy the unpleasant odor that so often arises from flowers whose stalks have a tendency to become slimy. Flowers of this description should have a wee bit snipped from their stalks every time the water is changed and also before arranging them for the first time.

Milk and Tuberculosis. Dr. Eastwood, an eminent English authority, connected with the royal commission on tuberculosis, says that clearly one of the most important steps in fighting the scourge of consumption is to keep a watchful eye on the milk supply.

Caring for Consumptives. For the incurable consumptives there are but few sanctuaries. Philanthropic persons are strangely slow to understand that by caring for the careless and incurable consumptives, the most dangerous classes to the community, they would be undertaking a work of the greatest preventive value.—Our Hospitals and Charities.

JUST ONE DAY AT THE "IMPOSITION"

Was Sufficient for A. F. Hall—Found Old Battlefields of Virginia Far More Interesting.

One day at the Jamestown "imposition" as he calls it, was enough for A. F. Hall, but he spent many pleasant hours during his recent four weeks' trip at the sites of the historic battles in which he participated over forty years ago. Mr. Hall was a member of the 50th New York Engineers, which with the 15th New York and a battalion of regulars, constituted all the engineers of the Army of the Potomac and was always attached to its headquarters. He enlisted from Rochester, N. Y., and his tent-mate was E. G. Brown, who enlisted from Niagara Falls. Mr. Brown is now a resident of Detroit, Mich., and with his wife accompanied the Janesville man on the tour of the old camping grounds. They sought out the old sites of Fredericksburg, Chancellorsville, and the Wilderness in a locality where the army had spent eight months when it moved in '64 to Spotsylvania, Cold Harbor, and the North Anna river. The old crater where the mine was blown up at Petersburg, whither the Union army had pursued Lee's army with a loss of 18,000 men, is now a show place and visitors are allowed to view it on payment of a small fee. The site of Stockade Church, built by the engineers with whom Mr. Hall was associated, is now occupied by a national cemetery. The party also visited Yorktown and witnessed the unveiling of MacMonnies' equestrian statue of Gen. George McClellan at Washington, attending the reception given by the Society of the Army of the Potomac in the Congressional library the same evening. The day before the opening of the exposition found them at Jamestown. They found things in a chaotic condition. The funds had given out; the buildings were not ready; and few of the exhibits had been installed. Mr. Hall says that they may have a show by the middle of July, but he doesn't see how they can have one any earlier. Rates are doubled and in many cases trebled and the temporary hotel accommodations at Norfolk are not as yet in readiness. Battleships from Germany, France, and England, were on hand, but the Janesville visitor did not wait to hear their salutes on the way following. The booming of guns has had no particular attraction and novelty for him since he and his camp-mates laid a bridge under fire at Fredericksburg with 300 pieces of artillery firing over their heads to protect them.

REAL-ENGLISH LORD VISITS JANESVILLE

Accompanying Him Were "Heir-in-law" to "Silent" Smith and Railroad Officials.

Coming on a special train a party of very distinguished personages, including an English nobleman, an "heir-in-law" to the late "Silent" Smith and several railroad officials, paid Janesville a visit this morning. The train, which consisted of an engine, baggage coach and private car, came over the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road from Chicago, via Rockford, and proceeded from here to Milwaukee, being on a tour of the company's lines. The host was E. W. McKenna, assistant to President A. J. Earling of the St. Paul company, and his guest of honor was Sir Lord Marsden of England, who holds stock in the road. Another guest was a son-in-law of George G. Mason, who has just come into the limelight by inheriting $12,000,000 from the late "Silent" Smith and having resigned his position as division superintendent to spend this fortune. Two division superintendents, G. R. Morrison of the Racine & Southwestern and E. D. Wright of the Mineral Point, were also in the party. About half an hour was spent in Janesville; the special being run behind regular passenger trains. The visitors whiled away the time standing about the depot platform. His highness from abroad could have passed for a prosperous American businessman had his mustache been less carefully groomed and his hat been less extreme in mode. The train was in charge of Conductor Styles of Chicago and was piloted from Janesville to Milwaukee by Conductor Charles M. Corson of this city.

A BASEBALL REVIEW

Captain Anson Struck Out by the Law—Huff Leaves Boston.

CHANCE'S DIAMOND ADVICE.

Chicago's Manager Talks to Youngsters—Huff Breaks into Ranks of Poets—National Game Is Responsible For a New Disease.

George Huff is one of the oddities of baseball—not because he weighs 300 pounds.

Who is George Huff? He is the man who was manager of the Boston Nationals for about three consecutive days, all at once, in a row, in one week, without a vacation.

Huff was called to boss the Boston Americans by Owner Taylor after the suicide of Chick Stahl. He was for twelve years' director of athletics at the University of Illinois and is considered an expert judge of ball playing material. He has developed a dozen ball players for big teams.

Shortly after taking up the Boston job Mr. Huff had a long talk with Magnate Taylor and handed in his resignation.

"There is nothing back of my decision," said Huff, "except my conviction that I will be happier and more contented in Illinois than I could ever be in Massachusetts. I was induced to go to Boston because I have had the reputation of being a good judge of ball players. But I have found in my brief career in the big league that there is a great difference between judging one good ball player and handling sixteen or seventeen of them.

"When I was director of athletics at Champaign and told a college player not to strike at those high fast ones, he always said, 'Very well, sir; I shall observe your wishes in the matter.' When I told Mr. Ferris the other day that he should not have popped up an easy fly, he glared in my direction and said something about a fat chunk of cheese. But it's all over now, and I say with the old poet:

"This have I learned with little cost: Whether in love or playing ball, 'Tis better to have tossed and lost Than never to have tossed at all."

Goodby, Mr. Huff. Your place on the bench will be mighty hard to fill—with one man.

Judge Honore of Chicago recently denied a preliminary motion for an injunction asked by Captain Adrian C. Anson in a suit begun to enjoin the city and Building Commissioner Joseph Downey from stopping work on the grand stand at his new baseball park at Sixty-first street and Champlain avenue. It was argued the city had no right to revoke a permit once issued. The court was not inclined to this view. "I'm sorry," Judge Honore said, "that I cannot assist in this laudable enterprise, but the law on the subject seems clear." In his petition Captain Anson said stopping the work would result in the loss of profits of $50,000 for the season. The ex-captain has the sympathy of the fans in his troubles. His next move is still shrouded in doubt.

Manager Frank Chance's advice to young ball players: "Get all the batting practice you can; guard your throwing arm; learn to run the bases and develop your wind; have good habits and use your brains." Why limit that to young players? Many veterans, including some so-called stars, could apply it to themselves with marked advantage.

From Cleveland comes the interesting news that "a physician of that city has discovered a new disease, the same being laryngeal anthrax and indigenous to telephone girls telling baseball scores over the phone." Why not also applicable to the bleacher howlers?

The St. Louis fans are not finding much to enthuse over in their teams. Even if a composite record could be made of their victories and defeats to date, there would be no cause for congratulation. But—the season is young.

Although Chinese baseball players are mighty scarce in this country, over in Honolulu there is a team composed exclusively of Chinese, and they play good baseball. The team is called the Chinese Alohas. In a recent game with the players representing the Hawaiian hotel, the Chinese team won by the score of 9 to 8. The lineup of the Chinese team is as follows: F. You, catcher; Chang Yeu, pitcher; N. Sheng, first base; Ah Yau, second base; Yuan Chew, third base; Hot Sing, shortstop; Ho Tong, right field; Ah Sam, center field; Hung Nyam, left field.

THE GOLDEN EAGLE

IN OCEAN'S GREATEST DEPTHS.

Pressure of Water That Would Destroy a Battleship.

More than half the surface of the globe is hidden under water two miles deep; 7,000,000 square miles lie at a depth of 18,000 feet or more. Many places have been found five miles and more in depth. The greatest depth yet sounded is 31,200 feet, near the island of Guam. If Mount Everest, the world's highest mountain, were plucked from its seat and dropped into this spot the waves would still roll 2,000 feet above its crest. Into this terrific abyss the waters press down with a force of more than 10,000 pounds to the square inch. The staunchest ship ever built would be crippled under this awful pressure like an eggshell under a steam roller. A pine beam, 15 feet long, which held open the mouth of a trawl used in making a cast at a depth of more than 18,000 feet, was crushed flat as if it had been passed between rollers. The body of the man who should attempt to venture to such depths would be compressed until the flesh was forced into the interstices of the bone and his trunk was no larger than a rolling pin. Still, the body would reach the bottom, for anything that will sink in a tub of water will sink to the uttermost depths of the ocean.—Eugene Willoughby in The Ocean.

THE TALE OF A FISH.

As Related to His Friends by the Voracious Jenkins.

They had been discussing fish and fishing, when Jenkins suddenly added: "Did I ever tell you about Pitti Sing, my pet Japanese fan-tailed goldfish? Bought her from Jake Hope for $45, and she is no longer than your finger. But about her intelligence. Of course, she comes when called and eats out of your hand and all that childish nonsense, but here's a thing she did which indicates thought, reasoning, brainwork. One day a caudate stick fell from the mantel on to the thick glass bowl in which Pitti Sing was dreaming. The candlestick cracked the bowl and knocked a small hole in it. Pitti Sing, all alone in the drawing room, saw her existence flowing through the hole, and what do you think she did? She plugged up the leak with her tail, and in that position I found her on my return an hour or so later. She had saved her life, but the end of her tail, from exposure to the air, was all shriveled and cracked. I had to massage it with cold cream before the poor little thing could swim again." There was painful silence for a few minutes; then when Dumpty said it looked like rain everybody but Jenkins followed him out.

LIKE ONE LARGE FAMILY.

People of Newfoundland Have No Need of Hotels.

I need scarcely say there are no hotels on this coast, and consequently no hotel bills. The traveler selects his own house when he enters a settlement; walks in and sits down by the stove. Indeed he scarcely waits for the invitation to "sit in" when the family goes to meals; the people of this coast being much given to hospitality. When night comes on he simply takes off his boots and stays. It may be he will have to share a bunk with one of the household, or perhaps he has a bed in "the room," that depends on his social position. If room is short he will turn in on a settle, or simply lie down on the floor. I have slept on a settle under which the hens lived in winter and rested as soundly as on any feather bed, but only inconvenience being that now and again I had to grope after the rooster, which persisted in thinking it was morning long before I did. The first question asked a stranger on his entering a house will not be "What is your business?" It is certain to be "Have you been to tea?" For our national drink is tea, and a drunken man is seldom or never seen. Indeed we have become a prohibition coast.—London Standard.

STYLES OF 4,000 YEARS AGO.

Tend to Prove There Is Nothing New Under the Sun.

For women archeology assumes a deeply interesting phase in the question which has been raised by Signor Mosso as to styles in dress at these existed 4,000 years ago. Signor Mosso, the eminent authority on ancient Etruria, the Roman Forum, and early Crete, has concentrated his great experience and knowledge on elucidating this bypath of science from his Cretan studies. The general result has been to confirm the old dictum that there is nothing new under the sun. Even the "latest fashions" are antiquated. Signor Mosso finds that 4,000 years ago the ladies of primeval Mycenae wore hats pretty much as they are seen in the showrooms of Paris to-day. They knew what crape trimming was, had tartans before the Scotch, understood the mysteries of corsets lacing in front, short wide sleeves, metal belts, and a style of dress which an imitative nineteenth century, that considered itself original, dubbed "Empire." Their principal colors in robes were orange, yellow, blue and purple, which rather upsets the claim of the Phoenicians to have "discovered" purple.

He Attracts Little Notice.

A man who never makes enemies is a good deal like a post hole after the dirt has been shoveled back into it.

NEVER ON THE THIRTY-FIRST.

Bridegroom's Second Visit Would Be One Day Afterward.

Rev. Dr. William H. Fishburn, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, most sunny men in the world and likes nothing better than a good, wholesome joke, even if it is turned against himself. He was visited in his home on last St. Patrick's day by a prosperous looking couple who desired his kindly office in making them one. The man was an ironmaster from Pittsburg and the bride-elect was a Jersey woman. The business was quickly dispatched and the happy bridegroom came to the question so many in like fix ask the clergyman: "Just suit yourself as to that," said Dr. Fishburn as his eyes rested upon a thick roll of bills the ironmaster had dug out of his trousers' pocket. "Well," said the newly-made husband, "as this is the seventeenth of March I'll make it $17, and good luck to you." "My friend," said the dominie, "I wish you the greatest happiness in the world, but if ever you happen to want me again just call around on the thirty-first of the month." "No, sir," replied the bridegroom as he walked away, "I'll come on the first."

"GET THE FIRST $1,000."

Ancient Axiom That Has Set Many Men to Saving.

"Get the first $1,000." After that money-making is easy. This is the old-time sage advice of the hard-headed, self-made man. That axiom has set many men to saving. They fix upon that sum as the glittering far-off herald of a fortune something to be made. To a man on a small salary—a salary, say, out of which something can be saved weekly without too much deprivation—the advice is good. There is something in it that acts as a stimulus to economy. And who will deny that economy is a good thing or that any truth that lights the way to it should not be known? Many men, therefore, have been buoyed up in their economies by the belief that the first $1,000 is the hardest to get, and that afterward all the rest would be easy and the good things of the world that follow a bounteous supply of money would be within easy reach, says a writer in the Denver Republican. It is a pity that the man who invented that saying could not also have told us with equal advantage how to turn the $1,000 over and make two of it. It takes a long time to make a wage-earner see that "money works." His idea of making money is to work for it himself. It never occurs to him that money works much easier than he can and without any of the hardships he himself experiences—that is to say, until he has got the first $1,000. That usually makes a young man feel like a financier and he talks wisely of investments.

LAST OF LONDON'S OLD INNS.

Travelers of To-day Stop at the Tavern of Pickwick and Sam Weller.

A century ago London was noted for its coaching inns. To-day only one remains in London proper to recall the gayety of coaching parties that assembled in the comfortable parlors for an evening of pleasure. George's Inn, the last of the famous taverns where the nobility of England gathered in years gone by was probably the most popular that lined the roadways of the English capital. It was through his association with the people who frequented George's Inn that Charles Dickens began to attract widespread attention as a novelist and writer. More than three score years ago he was a familiar figure when revelry held sway in the now antiquated tavern. Here it was that Mr. Dickens met Mr. Pickwick and the various characters he immortalized in "Pickwick Papers" and bounded at once into popular favor as a humorist and close student of character. The attractiveness of the old inn is still maintained at a high standard, and it is to-day a favorite stopping place for travelers and coaching parties. Nothing has been removed from the place to dim the memories of the past. The same old-fashioned chairs, benches, tables and furniture are there that were in use a century ago, and the decorations have never been altered. Ownership has remained with the same family for many generations, and it is said the present owner is a direct descendant of the man who originally opened it.

HAD BORROWED A PAST.

Pittsburg Man's Unique Scheme for Pleasing His Bride.

There is a man in Pittsburg who will be married in a short while, and will occupy the house a few rooms of which he has used during his bachelor days. He takes the greatest pleasure in showing his intimate friends about the place, and is especially delighted at the astonishment they express when his own "den" is reached. He has always been a quiet, studious fellow, but as refitted the room gives the appearance of the lounging place of a regular rounder. There are racks of long pipes; photographs of actresses are stuck about the chimney glass; a shelf of beer steins runs all the way around the room, and a few feminine gloves, handkerchiefs, and fans are scattered about. "Great Scott, Jack!" the last visitor gasped, "where did you get this outfit, and why?" "Bought out a college fellow," was the complacent reply. "Just think how pleased that dear little girl will be when she sees all this truck and thinks how much wickedness she has won me away from!"—Harper's Weekly.

Pertinent Inquiry.
Senator Rayner of Maryland is in favor of adequate salaries for school teachers and at a reception he told a story about a teachers' meeting in a district where the salaries were extremely low. "A rich, portly banker opened the meeting with an address," he said. "The banker concluded his remarks with an enthusiastic gesture and the words: 'Long live our school teachers!' 'What on?' shouted a thin, pale, seedy man in a black coat slightly smeared with chalk marks."

Hindoo Likes Many Clocks.
The Hindoo places a clock in his room, not because he ever desires to know what the hour is, but because a clock is a foreign curiosity. Instead, therefore of contenting himself with one good clock, he will have, perhaps, a dozen in one room. These clocks are signs of his wealth, but they do not add to his comfort, for he is so indifferent to time that he measures it by the number of bamboo lengths the sun has traveled about the horizon.

A Terrible Remedy.
I can only think of one method by which nurses can guard against imitations of their professional costume. It is that they should adopt one that is ugly or at least dowdy—and that remedy would, I expect, be regarded by most of the nurses as worse than the evil it was designed to cure.—Truth.

MEN BEHIND TEAMS.

Career of Joe Cantillon, New Chief of Washington Americans.

UMPIRE, PLAYER, MANAGER.

Dan Reeves, the Philadelphia National's Secretary and Treasurer, Long a Sporting Authority—A Reminder of Dan Mills' Win of $19,500.

Joseph Cantillon, the new manager of the Washington club of the American league, is a veteran who has been prominent as player, umpire and manager, and is thus thoroughly familiar with baseball from every angle.

Mr. Cantillon was born in Ireland in 1864, and his parents still live in Janesville, Wis. At eighteen he signed his first contract with Rockford, Ill. Next two years he played in Green Bay and St. Paul. He attracted wide attention as outfielder of the Eau Claire club of the Northwestern league in 1886. In 1887 he played field with the Dubuque club under Manager Tom Loftis.

In 1888 he played with the Rockford (Ill.) club, and the next year he played with and captained the Burlington club throughout the season, leading in batting. He next drifted to the Pacific coast, where he remained until 1893. He then played with Rockford and Dubuque. The next year he became an umpire in the Western league and in 1897 was appointed manager of the Columbus (O.) club. Subsequently he was appointed as a National league umpire by Nick Young and officiated in that league for several years. Then he went to Milwaukee as manager of the Milwaukee American association club, which he had handled with great financial and artistic success for the past five years.

His team was always a pennant contender and in 1900 finished a good second after a bruising race with Columbus. Last fall his services were in great demand, but the Washington club met his high figures and secured him.

Daniel LeRoy Reeves, the popular and able secretary-treasurer of the Philadelphia National league club, was born at Cape May, N. J., thirty-three years ago. He prepared for college at the South Jersey Institute at Bridgeton and attended Lafayette college and is a member of Theta Delta Chi fraternity. He subsequently studied law at the University of Pennsylvania Law school and was admitted to practice in the supreme court of Pennsylvania and the federal courts. Meantime he did not neglect sports. He played baseball and football at Lafayette and baseball with the famous Cape May (N. J.) team. While studying law he took up newspaper work and subsequently became associate sporting editor of the Philadelphia Times under the late Dan Mills, later becoming sporting editor when Mills made his famous winning of $19,500 at roulette and quit journalism.

Subsequently Mr. Reeves resigned from the Times to accept the assistant sporting editorship of the Public Ledger under the G. W. C. Drexel regime. When the Ledger passed into the control of the Ochs brothers, Mr. Reeves was made sporting editor, which position he still holds. In the fall of 1904 when the Philadelphia National league club was reorganized Mr. Reeves was elected secretary-treasurer, to which position he was re-elected for 1906.

SCULPTURE OF THE INDIAN.

Only Three Specimens of Lo's Rock Carving Have Been Found.

One of the three known examples in the United States of the famous Indian "sculpture" on two of the immense rocks which form the "great falls" of the Connecticut river at Belows falls has been entirely obliterated, not a trace of the marking which recorded some important event in the history of the aborigines being left, says the Boston Herald. The sculpture is a favorite subject of discussion for antiquarians and developed much controversy as to the manner and time in which it was made. When first discovered it consisted of a group of 16 or 18 variously ornamented heads, plainly cut into the rocks. The main piece of work was shown on a flat space about 15 feet wide and six feet high and consisted of four heads, each surmounted with a pair of rays and numerous heads without any decoration. On the other rock was one large head with at least eight rays, this head being 14 inches across at the forehead. There may have been originally also an inscription, but if so it had become obliterated by the action of the water years ago. The markings were supposed to have represented a victory at or near Belows falls by four bands and their chiefs under one principal chief. The fact that the action of the water has removed what was discovered on the rocks 100 years or so ago indicates that not a few that much more of the record must have disappeared previously.

SQUAW A NEAT HOUSEKEEPER.

She Must Live in a Tent, However, to Prove This.

Put the squaw in a tepee and she is the neatest of housekeepers, says the Denver Republican. Everything in one of these big, roomy tents is in apple-pie order. The blankets are neatly rolled and stowed away under the edge of the tepee, leaving the center clear. Bright-colored blankets and fine fur robes are spread about, and a wonderfully beaded dance drum hangs from one of the poles. But on the other hand, put a squaw in a house and she is anything but a success. Go into one of these frame houses and you will find the mattresses laid along the floor, with the whole family sprawling thereon. The cracked cook stove will be in the middle of the floor, with anything, but agreeable odors coming therefrom while the meal is in progress. Outside the bedsteads and springs will be used as chicken roosts. But the squaw doesn't let her housekeeping shortcomings worry her. When she puts on an elk-tooth robe, valued at anything from $1,000 to $3,000, and rides to the fair or to the agency on a Sunday astride a beaded saddle, she is a picture of contentment that any of her white sisters might envy.

Gets Venom From Bees.

The bees were in a glass bottle, buzzing fiercely. They rested on a very fine wire netting and below the netting was a transparent fluid. Every little while the chemist stirred them up with a toothpick and their wrath redoubled. "I am extracting their venom," said the man. "I am making them sting everything in sight. The venom drops down through the netting into that liquid, which is alcohol, and I make medicine of it. These angry bees, in a word, are assisting me to make medicine. Bees' venom—apis, as it is called—is a very good remedy for gout, rheumatism, cancer and a dozen other ailments."

A Convict Ship.

Readers of "The Convict Ship" will be interested to know that until recently one of these craft was in existence. The ship a few years ago was moored in the Thames, between Blackfriars and Westminster bridges. It had taken to Australia in its time 137,000 poor wretches exiled from England for various offenses. The vessel sank in Sydney harbor, but was later raised and sailed to England. It had 72 cells, a black hole and a chapel. The ship began its voyages to Australia in 1787 and sailed 81 years, in which time it carried to imprisonment and exile 110,842 men and 20,319 women.

ADVISE SELLING OUT.

An Unusually Frank Statement of Failure by a Board of Public Service.

In an exhaustive report to the city council the board of public service of Bellefontaine, O., recommended the selling of the municipal gas plant on the following grounds:

"The gas plant is no longer necessary to and does not furnish any public service."

"The mains in the principal streets are very old and will require in the future expensive repairs."

"The plant is in as good condition today as it is possible to put the present system, and to change the system will require another bond issue."

"The average price received from the sale of gas is very little if any lower than a private corporation would give to our people, but is as low as any governing board the people may elect can make and keep the plant in its present condition and meet all the requirements and pay bonds and interest, as has been the policy of the present management."

"Four years ago it was necessary to issue $15,000 of bonds to build a new boiler and install coal gas bench and necessary machinery, and another issue of bonds to the extent of $12,000 to pay overdrafts in the banks, and $5,000 more to put new mains in Sandusky street before it was paved. These bond issues should have been unnecessary if the plant had been operated with a view of self support, but gas was being furnished part of our citizens for much less than cost, and the remaining citizens, even if they did not use gas, were compelled to stand a bond issue for which each taxpayer became equally responsible to get the plant on its feet. And, as history repeats itself, you will find a request in the future, as in the past, for bonds to keep the plant in condition if the price of gas is lowered, and we wish to say in this connection that with the election for members of this board almost a year in advance there are candidates who are grooming themselves today with a view of catching popular favor and riding into office on the promise of cheaper gas, and if elected on that issue and their promises and pledges are carried out you may expect a request for a bond issue, and when we realize that we are now bonded to our legal limit, how will the money be furnished? And if the plant is permitted to get in the condition it was in four years ago, what would it be worth if compelled to sell it?"

"Is it right or just to tax those people who do not use gas to keep up this plant, either by taxes or bond issues, when they derive no service, either personally or as citizens from public service, from the plant? Is it right to tax any citizen to keep up something that gives him no return as a taxpayer? And on the other hand, is it right to compel the gas consumer to build up a plant from revenues derived from the sale of gas for the people? As the people own this plant, would it not be more equitable to all the people to dispose of the plant and with the proceeds furnish a necessity by installing water mains and sewerage accommodation for all citizens? This, in our opinion, should find favor from both factions, both of whom at present have just cause for complaint."

Company Breeds Appetite.

"I think the reason you can eat so little and live," said the woman who eats to the woman who doesn't, "is because you are by yourself; so much. Now I am different. I work in a room with a lot of people. They absorb my vitality to such an extent that I am hungry all the time. Regularly I eat breakfast, lunch and dinner and sometimes when I go to the theater I have a supper afterward. Yes, I suppose it is a good deal cheaper to be by yourself."

English Yeomanry Dying Out.

There is a popular song which praises this country as the home of the yeoman—"no other land can boast them;" as a matter of fact, they have been dying out in the last 150 years; they were the small owner class, whom many people would like to recreate.—Yorkshire Post.

DR. LANDRITH ADDRESSES THE PRESBYTERIAN ASSEMBLY.

ULTIMATE UNION, SEEN

Plea Made for End of Sectional Exclusiveness and the Bringing of the Churches Together—Dr. Roberts Moderator.

Columbus, O., May 17.—There were two features of the opening sessions of the one hundred and nineteenth general assembly of the Presbyterian church which convened at Memorial hall in this city Thursday—the annual sermon by Rev. Dr. Ira Landrith, of Nashville, Tenn., moderator of the last Cumberland Presbyterian assembly, which was delivered in the morning, and the election of a moderator, which took place in the afternoon. More than 900 delegates answered the first roll call and several thousand visitors looked on at the opening sessions.

The election of a moderator was reduced to a formality by the withdrawal of all the candidates except Rev. Wm. H. Roberts, of Philadelphia, who was chosen by acclamation. Rev. Dr. Roberts has been stated clerk of the assembly for 14 years and is regarded as one of the ablest and most popular men in the church.

Pleads for Unity.

The keynote of Rev. Dr. Landrith's sermon at the devotional service in the morning was an appeal for concerted effort toward the complete union of the church. "The war is over," said Dr. Landrith. "Southern Presbyterianism, without our cooperation, can never overtake the Presbyterian possibilities and demands of the south in general and the southwest in particular. The southern church will welcome our cooperation and it will hasten the consummation so devoutly to be wished, the ultimate union of the two churches. It is favorable acquaintance and not sectional exclusiveness that brings churches together."

Touching upon the race problem in the south, Dr. Landrith said: "The certain remedy for all racial ills lies in the direction of good schools and churches—good but racially separate schools—in which children are taught the dignity and as far as possible, the arts of honest toil and good, but for the best interests of all concerned, racially separate congregations; in which Christianity, and not the murderous prejudices of racial and sectional hatred are preached."

The communion of the Lord's Supper was celebrated at night by the assembly.

Introduced as the first moderator of the reunited church, Dr. Roberts said he appreciated the honor conferred because of what he had stood for, for many years, and that it was for this, rather than personal reasons that he had been chosen. He believed that little by little, it may be, but steadily and at last there would be but one Presbyterian denomination in this land. He believed that by the unanimous vote given him, the assembly stands with him in bringing together all the members of the Presbyterian family. Rev. Dr. Roberts had a pleasant word for the Cumberland element in the church, saying that although he was a high Calvinist, he believed that the "whosoever gospel" was fore-ordained from all eternity to be preached to all men. He hoped a great wave of evangelism would sweep over the land and that the church would send out uplifting influences to all needing the great salvation.

The moderator announced that Rev. Dr. Charles Manton, of Paris, Tex., would act as vice moderator.

Mr. James J. Parks, of St. Louis, advanced to the front of the platform with a gavel in his hand and presenting it to the new moderator said that, as representing the Presbyterian brotherhood of his city, he was deputed to deliver the gavel to be used in directing the deliberations of the body. The head was made of wood from the old First Presbyterian church of Philadelphia, "tried and true mother church," and from the First Presbyterian church of St. Louis, which was the oldest continuous Protestant congregation west of the Mississippi river. The handle was of wood from Tennessee, where the Cumberland church was organized in 1810, and had no varnish nor veneer on it and was fit for use without fear of tarnish.

The moderator responded in felicitous terms, saying each piece of wood in the gavel would be to him a reminder of years of activity and service now gone.

Rev. W. J. Darby, D. D., offered a resolution that Rev. J. H. Miller, of Evansville, Ind., and Rev. J. F. Rice, of Marion, Ky., be sent as fraternal delegates to the colored Cumberland Presbyterian general assembly now in session in Providence, Ky. Rev. Dr. Darby said that the assembly referred to represented some 25,000 or 30,000 members, located chiefly in Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama, Mississippi, Arkansas, Missouri and Texas. He said it gave him special pleasure on his first appearance in the reunited church to offer the resolution, as the matter lay near his heart as it did to all the members of the assembly, formerly of the Cumberland. The resolution was adopted unanimously.

Before The Footlights.

By those who are conversant with the history relating to the existing conditions at the time and in the place where the scenes of "To Die at Dawn" are laid, it is said that they are remarkably true to life. The company interpreting this splendid play is one of exceptional merit, headed by Harry Farnum and Miss Lottie Emmons. The management has spared no expense to provide his stars with a supporting cast as strong as the best, and the result is eminently satisfactory, both from a financial and artistic standpoint. The story is wholesome and true, and the gamut of human emotions are run during the progress of the play. It entrances, thrills, delights and edifies. It has the fancies of fiction founded on facts, and gives even the "frivolous" something to think about after they leave the theatre. "To Die at Dawn" is the season's success. This standard production will be seen at the Myers theatre on Saturday, May 18, matinee and evening. Seats are now on sale at usual place.

land, and entered the Presbyterian ministry in 1874, and soon became noted as a pulpit orator and a preacher of rare force and attractiveness. He gave a lecture series at Yale university in 1896. From 1880 until 1905 Dr. Watson was pastor of a large Liverpool congregation. He made a tremendous sensation in literature in 1894, when he published "Beside the Bonnie Briar Bush." Since then his books have been read with enthusiasm by all lovers of English fiction, and translated into both French and German. His home is in the suburbs of Liverpool.

URGE BAPTISTS TO GIVE

PLEA MADE FOR ONE-TENTH OF INCOME FOR CHURCH.

Fourth Session of American Baptist Missionary Union Opens at Washington—Kongo Question Up.

Washington, May 17.—The adoption of resolutions in favor of the movement to ask the Baptists of the country to give one-tenth toward the advancement of the work of Christ and urging the president to inquire into the reasons why the Kongo question has not been settled, were the features of the fourth session of the American Baptist Missionary Union Thursday. More than 2,000 delegates were in attendance.

The action regarding the giving of one-tenth of incomes followed a number of spirited addresses in advocacy of a decided increase in the income of the missionary union in order to meet the pressing needs of the work and to enable the union to enter fields urgently inviting occupation.

The resolution instructs the executive board to prepare as soon as possible a financial budget of the present needs, including the debt, and that an estimate be made of the amount of this budget the churches, apart from personal gifts and legacies, should contribute. The budget is to be apportioned among the states making up the Baptist constituency on the basis of the offerings received from the churches in the states during the past three years. Duty authorized persons are to apportion the amounts among the churches and associations in each state.

The report of the committee on joint conference to consider the question of union between Baptists and Free Baptists was adopted. It recommends to the societies that if, as a result of the conferences to be held with the boards of the Free Baptist body, some form of cooperation or union is found to be practicable and desirable, its realization shall be sought at the earliest possible moment.

A general meeting was held at night, when the discussion of "The need and value of a general organization" was opened by Rev. W. C. Bittling, of Missouri.

President Roosevelt received the delegates and their friends at the White House Thursday. There were about 2,000 persons present.

DR. J. R. HOWERTON CHOSEN.

Moderator of Annual Session of Presbyterian Church (South).

Birmingham, Ala., May 17.—With the election of Dr. John R. Howerton, of Montreal, N. C., as moderator Thursday afternoon, the forty-seventh annual session of the general assembly of the Presbyterian church in the United States (southern) got down to work in earnest. It looked for a time in the afternoon as though there would be a test vote on the Charlotte articles of agreement, the most important matter to come before the assembly.

A resolution was introduced to refer the question to a committee, but after various amendments the whole matter was tabled and will come up in regular order. At the afternoon session reports were made by all standing committees.

The night's session was devoted to welcome addresses by various prominent local laymen and clergymen and responses by the visitors.

 Senior Class Play at University of Wisconsin.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
 Evansville, May 16.—The many friends of Miss May L. Holmes will be pleased to learn that she has been chosen from among several hundred students of the graduating class of the University of Wisconsin, to take one of the most important roles in the senior class play. The class are to present George Ade's "Just Out of College." Miss Holmes was graduated from the Evansville high school with the class of '03 and is one of our most talented young ladies.

About fifteen members of the local Eastern Star went to Oregon yesterday, where they were most delightfully entertained by the order of that place. They were given a reception at five o'clock and a banquet at six.
 The work of the chapter occupied the evening hours. Just before the departure of the guests they were served ice cream and cake. The occasion was very much enjoyed by all.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Baker entertained the Good Time club at their home on the evening of May 13. This was a little in advance of the usual date of the club meeting, but that day being Mr. Baker's birthday his place planned to give him a surprise, and when he arrived from his place of business at six o'clock found his home full of guests. The dining-room and tables were prettily decorated with carnations and at 6:30 an elaborate dinner was served, after which toasts were given by Mayor C. J.
 Pearsall, E. T. Smith, Mrs. Paulson,
 Mrs. Pullen and Mrs. Fred Fellows.
 Mrs. E. Baker acted as toastmistress.
 A very pleasant time was had by all.
 The Prohibition club of the seminary will meet in their chapel this evening.

Harry Robinson has resigned his position in the Economy store and with his family and household goods will leave for Janesville this evening, where they will again make their future home. Their departure is very much regretted as they have made many friends here during their short stay among us.

Mrs. Joseph Bodenberger is entertaining her parents, Mr. and Mrs.
 Wm. Waukesha, this week.

Arthur W. Cary of Janesville was a recent guest at the home of his son, Edwin Cary.

 her sister, Mrs. M. J. Fisher.

Mr. Lowery of Antigo transacted business here Wednesday.

 May Grundy, departed Tuesday to join her husband in New Mexico.

SHORT TALKS BY
L. T. COOPER.

CHRONIC CRANKS.
 We have met people who are continually kicking. Life seems terrible thing to them. They seldom smile. Something dreadful is going to happen, nothing is ever just right, and they fret and complain from morning till night.

Their trouble seems to be just a bad disposition but this is seldom so. In most cases there is one of two things the matter with them; either their nerves or their digestion is responsible. Both come from the same thing—stomach trouble. A man or woman whose nerves are tied in knots is bound to be a mighty poor company. The same thing is true if what they eat don't digest properly. No wonder they grumble. I don't blame them.
 I have seen Cooper's New Discovery change the whole disposition of people in a month's time simply by getting their stomach in shape again. Even the expression on their faces was altogether different. The worried, tired, fretful look changed to a peaceful happy expression, and the lines of care disappeared altogether. Many people told me about this in letters.
 They seem to think it a miracle. It isn't. It's just the stomach working again.

Here's a case of this kind:
 "I suffered with my stomach for thirteen years. Nothing I ate seemed to digest. I also had chronic constipation, and was tired, dull, irritable and despondent all the time. I found it difficult to attend to my duties as traction agent at this place."
 "Six different doctors treated me and all gave different opinions."
 "I began taking Cooper's New Discovery, and to my surprise it helped me from the first. I have gained ten pounds in three weeks and am feeling fine. My work now is a pleasure, where before it was drudgery." J. R.
 Smock, Cicero, Indiana.

The American citizen has stood for more imposition in the matter of cigars than in anything else he buys with money

In fact, he's so used to being "worked" by the cigar manufacturer day after day, that he's pretty near come to believe there's no way of knowing what he is getting, anyhow.

The American Cigar Company stands for full value in cigars. It believes the man with five cents to invest is entitled to get his money's worth as much as the investor in any other property.

It is against box-stuffing, against substitution, against shoddy, poor cigars and against every kind of cigar imposition on the public—and it is adopting every possible method of exposing them.

It believes the only way to build up a great and permanent business is to deal honestly with the people, to give good value and uniform dependable quality all the time.

Several million smokers have found it out—and are buying their cigars by the "A" (Triangle A) mark on the box instead of taking everything for granted and smoking whatever is handed out.

That's Your Cue!

If you want to get acquainted with "A" (Triangle A) quality and satisfy yourself as to whether our claims can be proved or not, try

The New CREMO

Every box is now extra-wrapped in glassine paper, sealed at each end with the "Triangle A" in red. The cigars are kept clean, fresh and in perfect smoking condition until the box is opened.
